A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
THE ADVERTISEMENT OF THE CARSON
SOAP WORKS which appears in today's JOURNAL was composed and written by me before ever the manager or workman of the Carson Soap Works knew what a piece of soap was. I am surprised at L. S. Greenlaw appropriating an advertisement written by a person not having charge of the educational interests of a certain portion of our State. Were I connected with institutions of learning I would not appropriate the simple composition of a hard-fact son of toll, endeavoring to advance my own interests.

FOR FINE JOB PRINTING CALL
at this office.

The U. S. Senate has established a very important precedent by deciding a civil officer liable to impeachment, notwithstanding such officer may have tendered his resignation, and the same been accepted, before impeachment proceedings have been commenced. This is the decision in the case of Belknap, late Secretary of War. On Monday the Senate adopted, by a vote of 37 to 23, a resolution that Belknap is amenable to trial by impeachment for acts done as Secretary of War, notwithstanding his resignation, and it was ordered that the respondents and managers on the part of the House of Representatives appear on Thursday next at 1 o'clock to hear the judgment of the Senate. Jones and Booth voted in the negative, and Sargent in the affirmative. The importance of the question just decided can not be under-estimated. The finding is in accordance with our views. We believe that Congress, sitting as a high court of impeachment, has a right to try ex-Secretary of War Belknap for plundering United States soldiers. Now, Belknap's resignation (on the eve of detection) should be no bar for his impeachment—for admit that, and what a loophole for dishonest officials is established! Great Britain (where justice is more impartial than elsewhere in the world) holds that ex-officials must be punished, although they may have resigned. Unless Congress attaches some stigma on Belknap, justice will be labeled as a sham in this "Land of the free and home of the brave." Official corruption exists to an alarming extent in this country, and is rapidly increasing. It must be stopped.

OPPOSITION ROAD.

The Enterprise hits the nail on the head when it advocates a narrow-gauge road from tide water to this State, calling upon our bonanza owners to seriously consider the practicability of building such a road. Such a road would save in fares and freights, to the people here in a single year as much as it would cost. The route is most favorable; a saving of 1,300 feet in altitude could be gained over the route of the Central Pacific; a country covered with magnificent timber would be opened to market, and the people here would be obliged to pay only legitimate interest on $20,000 instead as at present, on $80,000 per mile to travel or carry freight between this State and San Francisco bay. The Enterprise thinks too that were such a project inaugurated that the counties along its route would subscribe for twenty per cent. of the stock, and that individuals living in the various counties would, in small and large sums, take forty per cent. more of the stock. The above is exactly our opinion and nothing would please us better than for some one to take the necessary initiatory steps. Capital seeking an investment could not find a better one.

An extract from a letter from Colonel Gardon, dated Labare, Africa, March 9th, gives a faint clue of the whereabouts of Stanley, American explorer. In February last he was supposed to have been at King Mera's, in Reganza, Central Africa, and an envelope dated at Reganza and supposed to be in Stanley's handwriting has reached Colonel Gardon. There was no inclosure in the envelope. We are glad to learn that Stanley still lives. We had almost given the daring explorer up for dead.

A PETITION for the pardon of Billy King, who was convicted in the District Court of Eureka on a charge of attempting to kill Joe Menles, two years ago, is in circulation at the Base Range, and has already received a large number of signatures.

LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA.

Independence Hall—The Curious Relics Shown To Visitors—Carpenter's Hall—Another Place of Great Historic Interest—Notes from Our Special Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—As people are apt to tire of anything steadily kept up for a long time, and it is best always to have a little variety, we have concluded to interrupt the monotony of describing building after building of Centennial wares, and stepping aside from our regular path for a little while to describe one or two historic places. The description of these will be peculiarly appropriate at a time like this, for they are all connected with the event which the Centennial Exposition is now celebrating, the birth of the American nation. The first of these is

INDEPENDENCE HALL,

As it is generally called, or the place where the Declaration of Independence was adopted and hence the birth place of the nation. Independence Hall was doubtless in colony times considered a very fine building, but now it looks small in comparison with the tall buildings that line the principal streets of Philadelphia. Its erection was begun in 1732, Andrew Hamilton being the architect and superintendent. It was occupied by the Legislative Assembly of Pennsylvania from 1736 till 1799, by the Supreme Court from 1743 to 1775, the Congress of the Union from 1775 to 1781, Peale's museum from 1802 to 1823, and the Councils of Philadelphia have met in it since 1854. These particulars are obtained from a tablet on one of the walls. On the ground floor, the room on the right of the entrance has been turned into a national museum and contains all sorts of Revolutionary and ancient relics. We will mention a few of them. In the center of the room stands the writing table of George Mason, upon which he wrote the Bill of Rights of Virginia. To the right of this and against the wall is placed the old bell, from whose throat one hundred years ago pealed out so grandly the notes proclaiming "liberty throughout all the land and to the inhabitants thereof." The old bell has a large crack in it now and could not produce a clear tone, but the ringing tones with which it announced the adoption of the Declaration, and ushered in to the world of nations the American Republic, are still heard throughout the length and breadth of the land. Along with the bell may be mentioned another thing connected with the Declaration of Independence, viz: a pair of buckles worn by Samuel Adams at the signing of it. Some of the hair of John Hart, one of the signers, is exhibited. Other Centennial relics are lamps in use in Philadelphia in 1776; commissions of officers in the army issued by the Continental Congress; a razor used by General Washington; a cup and saucer used at the wedding of General and Mrs. Washington; steps to Washington's carriage; part of a pew in Christ's Church used by Washington, Franklin, Lafayette and Bishop White; Washington's sofa, used by him while living at Philadelphia; a blank card of invitation to dine with President and Mrs. Washington, struck from the original copper plate; the chair of Gen. Washington at the council of war held at Trenton, Jan. 2, 1777; sword surrendered by Col. Tarleton to Col. John Eager Howard at the battle of Cowpens; profiles cut by Major Andre, and autograph lines written by him for Miss R. Redman at Philadelphia in 1778; autographs of the original members of the society of the Cincinnati, headed by G. Washington, President; a goblet presented by John Wilkes to John Hancock, it has around the rim the inscription—"Success to Wilkes and Liberty;" chair of Wm. Penn; scarf of Mrs. Abigail Adams; baby clothes made by Mrs. Adams for her son John Quincy Adams; a doll of colonial times; first Catholic prayer-book printed in America (1706); original charter of the city of Philadelphia, granted in 1701; and many others. There are also a number of miscellaneous relics of great interest, such as an original signature of King William to an order proroguing Parliament; a watch supposed to have been brought to this country in 1678 by John Crips, one of the first settlers of Mt. Holly, N. J.; a book printed in 1496; the first telegraph message ever sent; an Eastern garment presented by the Day of Algiers to Mrs. D. P. Madison. On the walls are hung portraits of distinguished patriots of Revolutionary times. West's large painting of Penn's Treaty with the Indians hangs at the back of the building. The other room, the one in which Congress sat, and the Declaration of Independence was adopted, has the desk and chair of the President, a number of the chairs occupied by the members, the original draft of the Declaration secured in fire-proof safe, Mr. Jefferson's draft of the same instrument in his hand-writing, interlined by Dr. Franklin and Mr. Adams. This last was sent to Washington City as a temporary loan. The chandelier that used to light up the night sessions of Congress still hangs there. The walls of this room also are covered with portraits. The city councils meet in a room up stairs. In the rear of the State House is a very beautiful park with grand old shade trees that doubtless were growing when the crowd assembled there one hundred years ago, heard the old bell up in the tower peal forth, and listened to the reading of the Instrument declaring the United Colonies free and independent. On each side of the State House are buildings occupied by the courts and their officers. Another place about which great historic interest clusters is

CARPENTERS' HALL

Which is located further down Chestnut street. It stands in a sort of court, back a little from the street. It is celebrated as the meeting place of the first American Congress in 1774 and of the Convention to form a Constitution for the United States in 1787. The room where Congress met is on the first floor. This is the scene of the celebrated first prayer in an American Congress, when the Rev. Mr. Duché, by his earnest and heartfelt supplications, melted the hearts of all present. An engraving of the scene is hung up in the hall. Two chairs that sat on the platform are still there. The platform itself and the President's desk were cut away when in 1791 the Bank of the United States commenced its operations here, as they were in the way of the counters. We may state here that for a long time the building was used for public purposes, the Carpenters Company surrendering it to those uses, and removing to the upper story of a neighboring building, where for sixty years they held their meetings. The original floor is worn away, and the hall is now paved with tile. Over the platform is a banner carried at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Washington's birthday, and at the other end of the hall, one carried in the procession in honor of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, in 1788. Around on the different walls are various old and interesting documents. Passing up stairs, the visitor inspects the library, which contains about 5,000 volumes, registers his name in a book kept for the purpose, and is presented with a small pamphlet entitled "Carpenters' Hall and its Historic Memories," published by the Company. FRAZER.

THE Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central and the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne railroads announce the following reduction on passenger rates, to go into effect immediately: From Chicago to Boston, $17; to New York, $16, and to Buffalo, $12. THE MERRY MAKERS.—Of the Merry Makers who are to appear at the Reno Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evenings, June 5th and 6th, the Colonist of Victoria says: "A large house received Mr. Sheridan Corby's 'Merry Makers' at the theater last evening. The troupe consists of the celebrated young actresses, Misses Sophie and Irene Worrell, Mr. George S. Knight, a wonderful character actor; Mr. Geo. Richards, a famous comedian; and Mr. Frank Jones, a marvel who performs on every conceivable musical instrument. The satisfaction given was unbounded. From beginning to end the house was convulsed with laughter, and the sweepers will reap a rich harvest of buttons. The performance was opened with an amusing sketch of 'Weston the Walkist,' in which Mr. Knight, personating a raw Dutchman from the country, was insulted and beaten by a bully and ended by beating his assailant and the rest of the house into a jelly. The 'Merry Makers' is an extravaganza. The young ladies are accomplished vocalists, and sang several pieces delightfully. Mr. Knight's sketches and pieces were indescribable; and Mr. Jones was called out seven times, performing on a different instrument each time." We bespeak for this company full houses. Seats may be secured for either night at the Postoffice.

GRAND BALL.—Amity Lodge, No. 8, Knights of Pythias, give a grand uniform ball at Dyer's Hall on the evening of July 4th. The hall will be newly canvassed; the music will be furnished by Prof. Varney, and a sword drill, Knights in full uniform will be one of the features of the evening. Invitations will be issued in a few days, and the tickets will only be three dollars. It is intended that this affair shall eclipse all previous efforts in the same line ever attempted in Reno.

PYRAMID STAGE.—Hymers & Evans, of the Truckee Livery and Feed stable, have started a stage line to this new mining district, near Pyramid Lake. The first trip was made yesterday, and the stage was loaded down. The stage will run tri-weekly, and will prove of great accommodation to those who wish to visit the district. The fare has been placed at a reasonable figure.

ANOTHER STORE.—Ben Pryor opened his variety store yesterday noon. He is located in Jaquith's building on Commercial Row, and his goods make a tempting display. Bennie keeps everything in his line on hand, such as fruit, candy, vegetables, produce, etc. He sells as low as the lowest. Give him a call.

WELCOME.—Capt. Bragg, the senior of the new lumber firm of C. A. Bragg & Co., arrived in town yesterday, bringing with him his family, and has taken up his abode with us. The Captain has purchased the residence formerly owned by Frank Kloecker, and will move into it in a few days.

K. of P.—The committee on the K. of P. hall, to be given on July 5th, by Amity Lodge, are requested to meet at Wells, Fargo & Co's office, on next Thursday, June 1st, at 1 P. M. By Order of the Chairman.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Reno and vicinity will be held at the Reno Opera House this (Wednesday) evening, for the purpose of taking necessary measures for the appropriate celebration of the coming Centennial Anniversary of American Independence. Come one! Come all! and let such action be taken and such arrangements made as will cause to be witnessed in Reno on the coming Fourth of July a celebration that will accord in some measure with the feeling of patriotic pride that must pervade the breast of every American citizen on that grand Centennial of our Independence. The Reno Opera House has been kindly offered free of charge for the meeting to-night. Let us see to it that the people are there en masse. MANY CITIZENS. RENO, May 30, 1876.

The Virginia City police have begun a raid upon the hangers on about gambling houses, and the men who live upon the earnings of disreputable women. Nine of these gentry have been arrested on the charge of vagrancy. Most of them were loaded with the jewelry of their women, but that will not save them. Others of this class are leaving the town. We do not want them in Reno.

FIXING UP.—The improvement mania still rages. J. C. Brown & Co., of the Mint Saloon, adjoining Norton's butcher shop, on Virginia St., propose to keep up to the times. They commenced work yesterday, and in a few days their saloon will be one of the neatest, cosiest and prettiest in town. Jerry Brown and Harv. Tompkins are the right kind of mixologists for us. Their's is a good place to go for a drink.

PHILADELPHIA CORRESPONDENCE.—We present a letter from our Philadelphia correspondent this morning. He changes the tone, omitting Centennial matters, and devotes himself to telling us something about Independence and Carpenter's, two noted places of historic memory. The letter is a very entertaining one.

COMING TO RENO.—Dr. S. A. McMeans, of Virginia City, designs taking up his residence at Reno after the 6th of next month. Declining health makes it necessary for the Doctor to change to a lower altitude. We shall gladly welcome the Dr. to our healthy and growing town.

SPRING FIGHTS.—They come a little late, but from the impetus given them, we judge "they will fight it out on that line if it takes all Summer." It may be fun to the victors, but we have no particular desire to be one of the vanquished.

BRICK.—Our brick makers are hard at work. Benham has another kiln almost ready to fire, and Ferguson & O'Hara have just finished one. From present appearances there will be use for all the brick that can be made.

ODD FELLOWS.—The Grand Encampment and Grand Lodge of this State will hold their annual session in Reno next week, commencing on Monday and Tuesday respectively. The Grand bodies will each be in session about two days.

CORNER STONE.—It is calculated that the corner stone of the new Odd Fellows building will be laid during the session of the Grand Lodge by the Grand Officers and with appropriate ceremonies.

WORK ON THE NEW TWO-STORY JOURNAL building is going ahead at a lively rate. When that building and the new Odd Fellows Hall is completed, that section of town will loom up a little.

DISTRICT COURT.—The District Court will not be in session again until Tuesday next, and the business before it will probably take two days to dispose of.

CHARLEY DAVIS and family returned to their home in Oakland by the express train last night after a several weeks' visit here.

OBSERVED THE DAY.—Our banks closed yesterday at 12 o'clock, observing Decoration Day.

COMMISSIONERS.—The Board of Commissioners will be in session on Monday.

Only five bunks of bonanza last night and six the night before. What the matter?

Gambling in Nevada.

Many of the readers of the Chronicle will remember the fierce and heated contest in the last Nevada Legislature on the subject of sanctioning gambling by law. The gambling interest finally triumphed, and now faro, keno, monte and other "games of chance," falsely so called—for in nine cases out of ten the verdant outsider has no chance at all—are licensed in the Silver State. The law recognizes and protects this demoralizing and cruel system of robbery, upon the single condition that the nefarious business shall be carried on "in a rear apartment." The law winks at the iniquity, but requires that it shall be done in the dark. It admits the scandal, and merely demands that it shall not make itself obtrusively conspicuous. The unwarly and inexperienced are robbed in order that the State may make a profit out of their ruin. A Silver City journal felicitates the people upon the fact that five of the principal games in Virginia pay into the State Treasury nearly $30,000 quarterly. But it does not open the melancholy question as to where that $30,000 comes from. It does not attempt to go behind the veil and tell how many ruined careers and blasted hopes, how much crime and misery, how many defalcations and suicides, are involved in that contribution to the State Treasury.—S. F. Chronicle of Monday.

A HAUL OF HOT SILVER BRICKS.—Yesterday afternoon County Assessor Thomas Gracy went to the office of the Consolidated Virginia mine and made a demand for the tax on the net proceeds of the mine. Payment was refused, when the Assessor at once attached all the bars in sight, six or seven in number, and worth about $20,000. The men about the assay office did not understand the matter and kept the Assessor locked up until they could send for Mr. Fair, Superintendent of the mine. When Mr. Fair arrived he concluded to let the Assessor take the bars away. Accordingly they were placed in a wagon and, all so hot that they could not be handled, were hauled away to the county buildings, where they were taken charge of by the Sheriff. The bars will probably be replevined to-day by Mr. Fair. These proceedings seem likely to bring the mining tax business to a focus.—Enterprise, 30th.
